

---

Subject: Re: class and type

Posted by Joerg von Lingen on Mon, 05 Mar 2007 16:01:06 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hello,

with respect to Joachim's suggestions I have revised the scheme for ambiguous names and published the new version at http://www.railml.org/genesis/rollingstock/rollingstock\_1.05.xsd.

On 01.02.2007 13:58, j.rubroeder@sma-partner.ch wrote:

- > Hello,
- > We started to use part of the rollingstock scheme for exchanging
- > rollingstock data via web service.
- >
- > While generating a lot of classes and data types, we realised that the
- > vehicleType has a sub element "class". The operator has an attribute named
- > "class" as well and the manufacturer with the meaningless attribute "type"
- > like many other attributes in railML. This leads for example to generating
- > the class named "class", not forbidden but very confusing.
- >
- > I therefore suggest to define a short list of forbidden names ("class",
- > "type", "element", "date" ...) and to rename the existing ones to
- > "classification", "operatorClass", "manufacturerType" and so on.
- >
- > Kind regards
- > Joachim
- >

--

Mit freundlichen Grüßen/Best regards,

-----
Jörg von Lingen

---