
Subject: Re: new attribute on the vehicle element

Posted by Susanne Wunsch railML on Tue, 17 Sep 2013 22:46:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hello Horst,

I move the request to the rollingstock group. The 'vehicle' element is part of the rollingstock sub-schema. I'm sure, Jörg (RS coordinator) will provide some feedback. He already worked on parts of the UIC wagon classification.

horst.naujoks@qnamic.com (Horst Naujoks) writes:

> Dear all,
>
> I'm a developer at Qnamic AG > (<http://http://www.railml.org//index.php/entwickler.html?show=35>) and > we using RailML in different contexts in our products.
>
> I'd like to submit the following extension to the railML > infrastructure schema:
>
> The element <vehicle> should be completed by an new optional attribute > 'uicVehicleNumber'. The whole purpose of this number is documented > here: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/UIC_wagon_numbers. The new > attribute supposed as an explicit supplement to the existing > id/code/name attribute facility. It should support a better data > exchange in systems which share this number.
>
> Today, we already employ this attribute by the usage of a schema > extension (as an 'any' attribute) and of course we'd like to replace > this construct by an explicitly specified attribute.
>
> Kind Regards,
>
> Horst Naujoks

Crosspost & Followup-To: railML.rollingstock

Kind regards...

Susanne

--

Susanne Wunsch

Schema Coordinator: railML.common
