Dear all,

Am 03.03.2017 um 15:48 schrieb Christian Rahmig:
> [...]
> thank you very much for your feedback and answers. So, I created a Trac > ticket for this issue, which can be found in [1]. If you think, that > there are still some points missing, please let us know.
> [...]
>
> [1] https://trac.railml.org/ticket/305 following our latest telephone discussion on that topic, I adapted the Trac ticket #305 [1]. For railML 2.4, a very reduced first step solution of <lock> is planned. A <lock> element shall have a <geoCoord>, attributes @pos and @absPos and a generic "any" (element and attribute) anchor fur further specific extensions.

Best regards
Christian

--
Christian Rahmig - Infrastructure scheme coordinator
railML.org (Registry of Associations: VR 5750)
Phone Coordinator: +49 173 2714509; railML.org: +49 351 47582911
Altplauen 19h; 01187 Dresden; Germany   www.railml.org