

---

Subject: Re: [railml3.1] Redundant references in TVD sections and restricted areas
Posted by Joerg von Lingen on Sat, 26 Jan 2019 04:00:24 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

<relatedToTrack>s in TVD section removed

Thomas Nygreen wrote on 21.01.2019 15:10:

- > It is correct that finding the next TVD section by looking
  - > for other sections referencing the same boarder is not
  - > robust when there can be gaps. But that does not make it
  - > necessary to include a reference to the track. Actually, in
  - > the case of a gap, the next TVD section will not necessarily
  - > belong to the same track (e.g. if the gap occurs in a
  - > switch). I would rather suggest using the
  - > spotLocation/@netElementRef of the already referenced
  - > trainDetectionElement and follow that netElement in the
  - > applicable direction (if necessary across relations).
  - >
-