Hi all,

in the last timetable developer group meeting we discussed how to go on with the remaining issue of this thread, which is, what to do with @processStatus. The developer group, including our colleagues from Norway agreed that given the other changes discussed here, there are no arguments anylonger preventing us from deprecating @processStatus as it is not used in a standardized fashion anyway. This change will be made available with version 2.5 of railML.

Best regards, Milan
