Welcome to the wonderful world of interlocking.

By nature, a forum is where the public exchanges ideas about open software development for the greater common good. And so it will be for interlocking branch of railML.

Please be aware that at the time of writing quite a lot of effort was already sunk into the development of an interlocking exchange format. Before posting queries or suggestions for improvement, you may want to contact the coordinator to get an idea whether your idea was already taken into account.

We hope that this forum will carry many a fruitful discussion !
